It is believed that Rio Bonlto property will increase in value 100 per cent within two years. There are no richer lands in the world than the Feather river bottom lands, good for oranges, lemons, peaches, apricols and other fruits, without irrusation. This is an excellent opportunity for speculation, or to get a home to one of the best apots in California. Will be in Reno for a few days, and will be pleased to meet all those who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity.

The Processes by Which These Familiar Things Are Produced.

Jet buttons? What you call jet buttons are not jet buttons at all; they are merely glass, but they serve the purpose just as well, look just as well, and are very much cheaper. So said a manufacturer of jet buttons in Brooklyn the other day. Then he led the inpuiring reporter into the factory where the buttons were in the process of manufacture.

Until recently nearly all the buttons of this kind came from Bohemia, but they are now made in this country, and American manufacturers are able to compete with the foreign trade.

The process used by this manufacturer is known only to himself, and its secrets are jealously guarded. They apply, however, more to the finishing and the different effects given by chemicals.

In a large room which the reporter entered a dozen or more men were busy at little work benches. The hum of shafting and the squeaking of a bellows at regular intervals lent their din to the scene of industry while the work men defit is handled

TOO GREEDY:

A Lesson from the Conduct of a Barnyard There is perhaps as much difference among birds as among human beings.

Some are wise, and some are foolish.

A Scotch observer furnishes an amusing illustration of this. He was accustomed to scatter breadcrumbs and other table acraps about the door in cold weather, for the benefit of the blackbirds, thrushes and other like visitors.

A huge, feather-legged Cochin-China cock sometimes found its way to the par-lor window as we were feeding our wild-

When we threwout a plateful of crumbs and scraps, all the other birds gobbied up their food very fast by going shrewdly and sensibly to work, each selecting bit after bit of a suitable size, to be instantly swallowed with little or no trouble; wrens, finches and thrushes taking only such bits as they very platfily judged were suitable to their individual powers of deglutition. It was amusing, however, to see the stupidity of the big Cochin China. He greedily pounced upon some big piece, so big that he could not swallow it, and rather than let it drop in order to pick up some than let it drop in order to pick up some more sizable bit, he invariably stuck to ft, like a fool as he was, and is, and will be to the end of the chapter.

He would strain and strive to swallow it till you feared he would choke himself, all the time walking about in the snow with uncertain steps, his eyesstarting out of his head.

The following platform and resolutions were adopted by the Republican State Convention, which convened at Winnemucca on the 15th instant:

The Republicans of the State of Nevada, in Convention assembled, again express their loyalty to the principles of the Republican party, which have made this country so great and prosperous during the last quarter of a century.

RESOLVED, That the question of a sufficient upply of circulating medium to maintain a permanent range of the price of labor and property is the most important political question awaiting solution by the American people.

reduces the price of labor and property, enriches the creditor. Impoverishes the debtor, and paralyzes industry and enterprise.

That the present financial system of the United States, which increases or diminishes the circulating medium as the pleasure of the manipulators of the national banks, without regard to the increase of population or the wants of the people, and which recognizes gold alone as the standard of value, and places in the hands of the Treasury Department all the revenue of the Government to speculate with in bends and loan to the national banks without interest, is subservive of the rights of the people, oppressive, unjust and should be repudiated. That a financial policy whereby both gold and silv rahall form the basis of irculation, whether the money used by the people be coin, or coin certificates redeemable in coin, or both, as convenience may require, is imperatively demanded.

That the attempt to substitute national bank notes, costing the Government millions of dollars annually, for free allver, costing nothing, is an outrage up r the recople; that the money ring or trust, which has fraudulently demonetized silver and seized the revenues of the Government for private speculation, shocks the moral sense of the people and destroys respect for gove nment and law. We demand that the ring or trust be destroyed, and equal rights be restored to all the people.

We charge that President Cleveland is the willing tool or agent of a powerful moneyring, which fattens on the subsidies of the Government, borrows the revenues raised by t xation and uses the mythout the payment of interest contracts the cur ency to enhance the value of bonds, and enriches usurers, while it depresses the price of abor and property.

usurers, while it depresses the price of abor and property.

That we favor the nomination of no man or President who is personally interested in national banks or the honded indebtedness of the United States. but we demand a candidate who is free to do justice to all the people of the country—the poor as well as he rich.

That the trick of the President and his advisers by which they prevented a vote in the House of Representatives on the Beck silver amendment to the Bond Purchase bill, equals the villainy of the secret and traudulent demonstration of silver in 1873.

bill, equals the villainy of the secret and traudulent demonetization of silver in 1873.

RESOLVED, That we are in favor of the protection of home industry, and that the isborers of this country have a right to all the work required to supply the people of the United States, and that we are in favor of high wages, and to that end will protect the wage-workers from competition with the cheap labor of other lands.

RESOLVED, That the policy of the Government should be inaugurated and established by the p ople t rough their representatives in both rouses of Congress, and not by the President or money trust, of which he, either as agent or head, is most active in defanding. III.

We charge President Cleveland with violating every promise he made in favor of civil service reform, with crippling the mail service, with refusing to alga necessary bills for the improvement of rivers and harbors, with using the power of his administration to prevent appropriations for navy and coast defenses, with attempting to destroy the protective tarif, with court ing the good will of other nations at the expense of the citizens of the nited States, and with joining the foreign bondholders to demonetize silver and destroy the industries of his own country, and for the reduction of the wages of the Mint empleyes at Carson, for closing the Carson Mint when it was not only self-austaining but a source of revenue to the Government, for his contemptuous vetoes of bills for the relief of disabled soldiers and saliors, and for failing to construct the Government building at Carson as required by law.

We are in favor of the absolute exclusion of the labor market is made worse, and we favor legislation by which a revision of our naturalization and land laws may be accomplished.

The idea never once occurred to the stupid Cochin, that by taking smaller and more manageable bits, he would be much the gainer in the long run; for when, after terrible exertions, the bit in his throat had at last become compressed and lubricated enough to be swallowed outright, and he leeked round for more, there was no more for him.

The wiser wild birds had finished it all up, even to the last crumb, and the Cochin-China had to stalk about in the snow, looking very disconsolate and foolish, and yet manifestly unable to see wherein his foolishness lay, for the next time he got a chance he behaved in precisely the same senseless manner.

THE denunciation of the fisher ies treaty by Senator Hoar meets the approval of every Republican and not a few Democrats. From the inception of the matter from the formation of Cleveland's illegal and unauthorized Fishery Commission, the whole affair has been clouded with suspicion of treachery which disclosed facts now more than bear out. In itself the treaty is a cession of rights which heretofore we have held without dispute, in return for privileges which exist but in name and which we do not want. It is an absolute and complete surrender made the more shameless by the report of Sir Charles Tupper to the Canadian government, from which it appears that it was the result of an agreement between the President and Secretary Bayard to assist England's prospects. As a treaty framer, Mr. Cleveland is not a dazzling success. His efforts are either weak and inconsequential as with China, or smell of treason as with England.

THAT the-Mills bill is geographical and sectional, and is intended so to be, the result of the attempt to place sugar on the free list most plainly indicates. Wherever the Democracy is strong the plough-share skims the surface of the ground, but wherever Northern and Republican industries are involved it buries itself in its efforts to root them up. The reasons which the Democrats can urge in favor of free wool, which is a Northern industry, have tenfold force in an argument for free sugar. But sugar is grown largely in Louisiana. It is a Southern industry; it demands protection and so of course is protected. Nor can the Democrats be heard to say that the duty was retained to foster and develop the beet sugar industry, since in the case of too many other growing interests they have ruthlessly withdrawn the aid of the protective tariff, solely because the location of them was tempt to reply. th of Mason and Dixon's line.

therefor. Blair defended his action in connection with legislation of this character and alluded in sarcastic language to Butler's incompetency. This brought the South Carolinian to his feet. He was white with anger and made a savage as-

CHIEF PADDY CAP.

HIS TREATMENT BY THE GOVERNMENT.

The Shoshone Indian Reservation-The Government to Blame for the Discontent Among the Indians.

Regular Correspondence GAZETTY.

ELKo, July 10, 1888. EDITOR GAZETTE: There seems to be a general want of information or rather a non-appreciation of the great agricultural and grazing fields of Northeastern Nevada. There is also untold mineral wealth that lies hidden within the bosom of the Bruneau mountain range and its spurs and neighboring mountain, as well as valuable placer diggings in most of the deep canyons and gulches that make down to the many beautiful and fertile valleys below. The streams all abound with the finest silver main river, an abundance of white fish exist, and in the spring of the year, during the salmon season, these streams are literally crowded with these delicious fish. The Indians who inhabit this region secure large quantities of these fish disturbances and discontent among and dry them in the sun for winter. food; this, with the large quantity of deer found around these mounthe Indians, with the addition of the wild fruit that is gathered by the squaws during the season, such as as gooseberries, currants, huckleberries, juniper, alder, choke cherries and plums. But these wild fruits are fast disappearing and are now reduced to a meagre quantity, from the fact that they are eaten or destroyed by the vanguard of the great herds of cattle and horses who have commenced to invade the dominion of solitude and the home of the Indian, the deer, bear, lynx and the man eater. The latter is a terror to the Indian as well as the white man.

The rivers and streams above referred to discharge volumes of water sufficient for thousands and thousands of acres of land, yet so tar as I am able to ascertain, there is not one drop of it utilized for general agricultural purposes, except along points near the Snake. This locality seems to present an inviting field to those seeking comfortable homes. I would therecomfortable homes. I would there- and he trespasses upon some fore suggest to migrants who are neighboring herd, the whole counrushing to California, seeking homes for themselves and their families, to pause in their onward flight and examine the agricultural, ter. If a more sensible, liberal and grazing and mining possibilities humane policy was inaugurated, it water unappropriated, with land at for a period of twenty-five years along the railroad, who should be to make payment, with a healthy and invigorating climate and in a country where graveyards are only used for those who die of old age or are killed by accident.

PADDY CAP'S BAND. In my last letter, July 7, 1888, I promised to further discuss the the parsimony policy of the Government towards the wards of the nation. For the purpose of illustrating the negligence of the Government and neterogenous treat-ment of the Indians, I will give a summary of the treatment of Chief Paddy Cap, who was captured and held prisoner by General Howard held prisoner by General Howard (after the Bannock war) at Camp Harney. He was a near relative of Old Winnemucea, who died several years ago. Paddy Cap is noted for his general intelligence, and is quite a cunning diplomat. He took part in the Bannock war of 1878, and was one of the leading of that war. The pener released he promised the authorities in charge he would fight no more, be a good Indian and go with his band on the Yakima resistance of the Government anowing a two dispersions of the Government anowing a two dispersions of the Government anowing a two first of that war. After being hundred Indians to occupy so much of the public domain to the exclusion of whites is unformed anowing a two first of the government anowing a two first of the government anowing a two first of the government and the the with his band on the Yakima res-is only necessary to say that out of ervation, where they say they were the 243,200 acres of land there is badly treated; consequently Paddy Cap, with the greater portion of Cap, with the greater portion of his band, fled from the reservation and wandered around in isolated places in Oregon and Western Idaho in company with other straggling Indians, until they finally reached the Western Shoshone Agency in Nevada in 1885, and re-quested leave to remain and make a home with the Western Shoshones, saying they wanted to fight no more and that they only wanted some land to raise pota-toes and wheat. The General Gov-ernment was duly notified of their

and up to August 2, 1886, nothing was received except a small supply of clothing, and I am informed that up to the present date they have received no farming utensils or encouragement to settle down and be quiet.

With this meagre quantity of food and clothing the Government expected that every male over six-teen years of age should labor upon the reservation, without even yeast powder to raise the little bread they had to eat. Nevertheless. these poor creatures made an at-tempt and did clear away some sagebrush and excavated a ditch, sowed a little barley and planted a few potatoes. The land was plowed harrowed by their Indian friends, the Shoshones. The seed they begged from the Shoshone Indians, also some garden seeds. These Indians could have fared tolerably well by hunting and fishing, but they were required to abandon the hunt and engage in civilized pursuits. These Indians, after trying to work a while on the above meagre amount of food, came to the agent and said: "We are heap tired, heap weak; not much strong; want little bit more flour so we can plant our crops."
The agent gave them some extra flour during their period of work, which was taken from the flour made out of wheat raised by the Shoshone Indians. For this humane act he was called to account and speckled mountain trout in by the Department at Washington their upper branches and further and was only relieved by being down, near the confluence with the charged with the value of the flour down, near the confluence of white planation pleading the cause of these poor Indians. This, too, when the flour did not belong to the Government and was willingly given by the Shoshone Indians.

Now, Mr. Editor, is there any wonder that we hear occasionally of these people, and further, is it to be wondered that they steal cattle when they are forced to despera-tion by hunger? The Honorable tains, are the main sustenance of Interior Department and the Honorable Commissioner of Indian Affairs are not wholly to blame for this condition of Indian Affairs. Congress has failed from time to time to make adequate pro-visions to enable the Department to meet the absolute necessities and wants of the Indiaus. The larger portion of the appropriations are absorbed in salaries to agents and employes and in the purchase of useless truck that is of no use to the Indians, including farming utensils that have long gone into disuse, and in the trans portation of supplies from Chicago and New York. Why the Gov-ernment of the United States should pay six cents per pound for the transportation of supplies supplies when individual firms only pay about two-thirds to one-half as much. In fact they have paid as much as eight cents per pound from New York to Elko. There is an unwritten and untold history of the working of Indian affairs that fewpeople know of. Why does the Government now pay at some agencies twelve cents per pound for beef when it can be bought for six and one-half to seven cents?

If the Indian's wife and chi'dren are starving for the want of food, try is ready to shoot him down. Deal justly with these Indians and with a few exceptions, there will be no use for an army in that quarof this country before settling else-to the Indian and soon Christianize . Of course I mean those In-$1.25 per acre, with credit of dians upon the reservation, and not four-fifths of the value of the land the stragglers in mining towns and compelled to go upon the reservation and learn the arts of industry. The average Congressman who comes from the rural districts, seems to know no more about the wants and necessities of the Indians than the average Plute or Shoshone knows about constitupromised to further discuss the tional law. I have on several oc-Indian question in connection with casions noticed criticisms from respectable quarters as to the policy of the Government in setting apart large areas of land for the use of the Indians.

THE WESTERN SHOSHONE RESER-

VATION Of this State contains 243,200 acres in a compact form, twenty miles square. This would seem at a first glance to be a large amount of land. It is nevertheless true that not more than one-seventh of this vast tract is of any value for agricultural or pastoral purposes. This seeming extravagance on the part of the Government allowing a few not more than 1,400 or 1,500 acres adapted to the raising of a kernel adapted to the raising of a kernel crop and possibly 1,800 to 2,000 acres for hay purposes, after considerable reclamation work has been done. There may be also 8,000 or 10,000 acres of tolerably fair pasture land for fall and summer of the halange of the mer use. The balance of this large area, 223,000 acres, is absolutely worthless for any purpose except as the home of the coyote, man-eater, rattlesnake and other rep-tiles. The iron-bound mountains wanted some land to raise potations and wheat. The General Government was duly notified of their presence and wants and assurance was given them that aid would be given in due time and some temporary provisions were made for a very small issuance of flour part week, three to three and a half pounds of beef to each person, and the agent was directed to assign them a small strip of land, that was annexed to the agency on the north, by executive order. The agent was further directed to make estimates and forward the same to the Government for the necesseary supplies of sustenance, clothing and farming utensits.

they must return before September

Zamioch To-night.

When you come right down to bedrock and talk about ways that are dark and tricks that are vain your fancy must decide that Prof. Anton Zamloch is the prince of them all. Zamloch opened at Crawford's theater for a season of one week, and had a large audience. To say that Zamlochis the best performer in his line that ever visited Topeka is putting it mildly. Zamloch on the streets looks more like a minister of the Gospel than one who is supposed to be in league with the devil. He looks when he sits at the dinner table with you as though butter dinner table with you as though butter would not melt in his mouth; but he gets his work in just the same. He will make things vanish; the table will be as barren as a Kansas plain after a grasshopper plague, but behold! Where has it gone to? Zambar at large the one saw loch never moved, at least no one saw him do it. As a last resort you order coffee and keep your hand on it for fear it may get away, and when you are about to take a sip, behold! It is solid ice. Moral—When you want a square meal don't invite Zamloch to accompany you. — Daily Kansas State Journal.

Threatened by Indians.

Governor Stevenson of Idaho has received a petition with sixty-four signatures of the citizens of Owvhee county, stating that there are about 300 Indians, mostly bucks, camped in the junipers, about thirty-six miles south of Silver City, and that they have killed a large number of the settlers' cattle, besides getting drunk and terrifying the women and children and acting in a most hostile manner.

Although we shall not obtain even a glimpse of the partial eclipse of the sun, which occurs next Monday, we are in a position to have a good view of the total eclipse of the moon, which occurs on the night of July 29th. The eclipse begins at 8:55; the middle will be at 9:27, and the total eclipse ends at 10:38.

Unlike any other part of the town, this addition faces the beautiful Truckee River, and Riverside avenue is certain to become the fashionable driveway of the country. The streets are 80 feet wide, while Riverside and Keystone avenues are intended to be 100 feet in width. All alleys are 20 feet wide. The soil is a rich gravelly loam, and susceptible of the highest state of cultivation. Being situated as it is, it is more exempt from fire than any other section. The regular lots are 50x140 feet. The sewerage is perfect. Before buy ng el-ewhere, Parties will do well to look at these Lots.

(TARNS IN NATURAL HISTORY.

Leading Writer Palls Some of Then to Pieces The Wanderful Shark. James Pays, the novelist, writes: "I am always a little suspicious of the excellent people who tell me 'natural history stories.' They are like traveler's tales—and we know what they are.

and we know what they are.

"How we all used to believe in the dog that Landseer painted and called 'A member of the Royal Humane Society!' Everybody now know that that dog—with the best intentions in the world—used to drown people with his affectionate paws instead of saving them.

"Is there anybody who has not met the man who knew the man that owned the Gog who traveled in a basket from London to Aberdeen by railway, and came home—covered with mud, and in very bad condition, but still came home—by road in a week? But does anybody know the

The last anecdote of instinct appears in the Nineteenth Century for this month-related, one is glad to see, by a gentleman, 'on whose testimony reliance may be placed'—about a shark.

"The shark is a creature who has been hitherto much neglected as a hero. He is generally the Bad Character of natural history stories, and it is quite refreshing to read a narrative to his advantage. Even now we have still to hear of his domestic affections, his gratitude, or even of his dormant sense of hnmour. When he turns so playfully over on his back it has hitherto been supposed to be for the greater convenience of swallowing the British seaman. Let us hope that, like so many of us, he has been misunderstood; and, in the meantime, let us be thankful to believe in his indomitable perseverance.

"The men let go a shark-hook, and soon captured a large shark. They cut the unhappy creature open, extracted the liver (which contains a considerable quantity of oil), and flung the carcase overboard. In a few minutes there was another tug at the hook, and, to the no small surprise of the fishermen, they brought up the very shark they had just thrown away as

"Doubt has been expressed about this tale. Anecdotes of the marvellous powtale. Anecdotes of the marvellous powers of the dog, and for all I know, of the dogfish, are swallowed, so to speak, hook and all; but this trait of the poor shark is received with incredulity. This is not only unfair, but illogical. For what is it that interferes with the appetite (not to say the voracity) of man, but his liver—and it was only his liver that the shark had lost."

OLD AGE AND ALCOHOL.

Nuts for Ardent Temperance People To Crack.

The records of centenarians prove that many do well also who take alcohol in some form or other, and for the feeble type of constitution which is never des-tined to such length of days a certain amount of alcohol stimulant is, perhaps, one of the greatest blessings they enjoy. Of centenarians, who certainly were not abstainers, the following instances may be meutioned: Cardinal de Salia, Archbishop of Seville, died in his 110th year in 1785, with every faculty except his hearing unimpaired, He attributed his green old age to a sober. studious life, regular exercise and a good conscience, as well as a pint of the best sherry at each meal, except in very cold weather, when he allowed himself a third more. Macklin, the actor, who lived 107 years, two months and ten days, up to forty lived, his biographer states, very irregularly, drank hard, sat up late at night, and took violent exercise. He drank tea, porter, wine, punch, and ate fish, flesh, fowl, etc., till he was seventy, but he never drank to excess. His usual quantity was seven or eight glasses of wine. tity was seven or eight glasses of while. He was always moderate at his meals, never abstemious. At seventy he gave up tea because it disagreed with him, and his drink with his meals for the last forty years of his life was white wine and water made very sweet.

Philip Laroque, who "went to bed intoxicated at least two nights every week ne was 100 years old, Whittington, who lived to 107, and "was an habitual drunkard," are two further tances. Whittington drank nothing but gin, of which compound, until within a fortnight of his death, he took from a pint to a pint and a half daily.-Nineteenth Century.

, TO FRIGHTEN BURGLARS.

Practical Suggestions by a Man who Ought to Know. "Do you know what kind of a burglar alarm I shall have in my house?" said a gentleman interested in an electrical business, to a Western Electrician reporter. "I shall not have a little bell near my bed to awaken me if any one opens a door or a window. No, sir. I shall have an 18inch gong put up in the centre of my house, and then connect every door and

"If a burglar opens a door or window then the noise will scare him away at once. Suppose I have a little bell in my room, wakes me up; what good do do? I have to get up, dress myself, and go down and drive that burglar away. He hasn't heard the bell, and I might lind him and that's just what I don't want.

"The kind of alarm I shall have will give the burglar warning that I am coming and afford him as opportunity to leave. I have no desire to fight burglars. I have no desire to be a hero. I want to scare them off without running any risk myself.

"What burglar would have the impudence to keep on stealing with an 18-inch gong striking fifty times a minute! Then, when the danger is over, I can go down and lock everything securely. What do you think of the scheme?"

Art and Science Defined.

"Art and science Defined.

"Art and science in their widest sense cover nearly the whole field of man's intellectual action. They are the outward and visible expression of two distinct and supplementary portions of our complex human nature—distinct, but not opposed, the one working by the daylight of the intellect, the other in the warm glow of the amotions: the one ever seeking to inthe emotions; the one ever seeking to in-terpret and express the beauty of the uni-verse, the other ever searching for its
